To: Indiana Medicaid Providers
From: CareSource
Subject: Indiana Pregnancy Promise Program

Summary

The Indiana Pregnancy Promise Program is a statewide program aimed to improve outcomes for pregnant Medicaid beneficiaries with current or past opioid use. This is a free, voluntary, statewide program made possible through a 5-year federal grant awarded by the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

Impact

The Pregnancy Promise Program (PROMISE = Promoting Recovery from Opioid Use, Maternal Infant Support and Engagement) offers enhanced case management and care coordination to participants with support from highly skilled nurse/social work case managers within the Medicaid health plans. The Pregnancy Promise Program case managers provide support beginning in the prenatal period, extending through 12 months postpartum for both the parent and the infant impacted by opioid use disorder. The Pregnancy Promise Program aims to connect individuals with prenatal and postpartum care, opioid use disorder (OUD) treatment and recovery services, mental health support, and address the health-related social needs of the family. The Pregnancy Promise Program is eager to partner with other organizations and programs offering family support and health-related services.

Most importantly, anyone can make a referral to the Pregnancy Promise Program. To learn more, please visit the Pregnancy Promise Program website or email pregnancypromise@fssa.in.gov.

Providers are encouraged to refer their patients to the program or share the handout from FSSA.
